Time for a change? A Tribe Called Red DJ says team name's discriminatory

GRAHAM LANKTREE

A Tribe Called Red DJ Ian Campeau filed a discrimination complaint against the Nepean Redskins football team with the Human Rights Tribunal of Ontario Tuesday, a year after he urged the team to change its "racist" name and logo.

"I wish I didn't have to file a complaint and we were able to talk," said Campeau, whose group made the Polaris Prize shortlist with their album Nation II Nation. Campeau added he hasn't heard from the team in the year since he volunteered to help raise funds at a benefit to pay for new uniforms.

"I hope all of Canada (sees) what's happening here in Ottawa," said Campeau, who isn't seeking financial damages. He proposes a new name and logo be phased in over five years. "I don't want these kids not to play football. Anything I can do to help change this name, I'm fully willing to do."

Campeau added that in light of all of the conversations the Idle No More movement sparked about how aboriginals are treated in Canada, it's high time to change the name. He said he hopes a victory for his case will inspire other Canadian teams that use aboriginal imagery to reconsider their use.

"It is time to banish the term 'redskins,'" echoed Assembly of First Nations National Chief Shawn Atleo. "First Nations are too often exposed to racism and discrimination and I do not want to see any young indigenous child hurt because their peers use this term in the mistaken belief that it is acceptable."

Using the term on the football field gives children the impression that it is a legitimate moniker that's OK to use widely, said Campeau. "That's as offensive as using the N-word. When the suicide rate for aboriginal youth in Canada is the highest in the world, you would think that self-image plays a really big part of that," he said.

"When it's OK to call someone a redskin because it's a team name, the psychological ramifications are huge."

The complaint also proposes the tribunal create rules about use of aboriginal names and images in sports.

Accused in fatal crash no stranger to DUI charges

In the past. Suspect in Brockville hit-and-run convicted of impaired driving in 2009

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

One of the men charged with impaired driving in a fatal hit-and-run that killed a 16-year-old Brockville boy was convicted of impaired driving four years ago.

Court records show that Joseph Greer was charged with impaired driving and driving with more than the legal limit of alcohol in his blood on July 30, 2009. In October of that year the court slapped him with a two-year driving prohibition and ordered him to hand over a $1,000 fine.

On Sunday, Ontario Provincial Police charged Greer, who is now 23, with the same two offences as well as indignity to a dead body.

His co-accused, Rusty Pearce, 21, was charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident and indignity to a dead body.

Police allege the two were involved in the collision which killed Aaron Stevenson.

The boy was struck at around 12:30 a.m. on County Road 2 near Irace Drive, between Brockville and Maitland.

Stevenson was pronounced dead in hospital.

Police said there are two crime scenes.

One is a skateboard park in Brockville, where residents say Stevenson's body was found. The other crime scene is the site of the collision on Highway 2, outside Brockville.

The OPP are asking anyone with information about Sunday's incident to call 613-924-4221 or 1-888-310-1122.

Empire Theatres' lease up in the air

Empire Theatre. METRO

Confusion over whether the owners of the World Exchange Plaza actually need the city's permission to convert the building's cinema complex into office space resulted in the finance committee sending the matter back to staff for clarification.

"I felt that we were going around in circles and it wasn't really being that productive," said Mayor Jim Watson. "So I asked the city manager to take charge of the file, come back with something that is much more clear, so that we understand what we're being asked to vote on."

Empire Theatres' lease expires at the end of the year, and while the building owners say they'd prefer to find another theatre operator, they wanted "clarity" on a requirement in the building's original development agreement to maintain an entertainment facility there. They told the committee they want to have the option to convert the area to offices.

"I don't want to see entertainment options leave the downtown core and with the Rideau Centre theatre closed and this closed, it would really leave just the Mayfair, the Bytowne and the Lansdowne theatres," Watson said, while noting that he's not sure the city should "micro-manage"

Ottawa's supply of downtown screens.

Despite recent upheavals in the theatre business, Watson said he's confident moviegoers will have a place at the redeveloped Lansdowne Park: "We still have a commitment that there will be a theatre at Lansdowne," he said. "That's part of the agreement — and what that marquee will say is to be determined."

Gatineau

Stabbing at HMV leads to attempted-murder charge

A man was so upset with a CD he purchased at a Gatineau HMV store he stabbed an employee in the back and wound up being charged with attempted murder, police say.

Police spokesperson Pierre Lanthier said the incident happened in the Promenade de l'Outaouais mall at approximately 3:20 p.m. Sunday. Mathieu Binet Champagne, 27, of Gatineau appeared in court Tuesday and was also charged with assault with a weapon, assault causing bodily harm, possession of a dangerous weapon and possession of a hidden weapon. JOE LOFARO/METRO

Arrest made following robberies

Police say they have arrested a man who robbed victims at knife-point near automated tellers in Ottawa throughout the month of August.

Twenty-seven-year-old Alexander McNaughton was arrested Aug. 30, and faces 14 charges — including five counts of robbery, three counts of wearing a disguise and two counts of assault with a weapon.

Police say a suspect held up a man and woman at 12:05 a.m. Aug. 16 as the two stood near an ATM kiosk in the 400 block of Preston Street. Brandishing a knife, the suspect forced the two to withdraw money from their accounts and fled with the cash.

The next day at 12:45 a.m. police said the same suspect visited a gas station's convenience store in the 600 block of Somerset Street West and attempted to hold up two customers at knife-point.

Armed with a knife, the same suspect again robbed a victim at an ATM Aug. 18, police said.

Mayor hits malls. Shopping budget takes on new meaning

If you've ever wanted to discuss city finances over a refreshing Orange Julius, this is your lucky week: Mayor Jim Watson is holding five public budget consultations at city malls.

"I thought we should try the concept of shopping for ideas at shopping centres," Watson said. "A lot of people go to shopping centres during the course of the day, at different times of the day, and it's just one more way to try to get out to the public and find out their priorities."

Not everyone, he added, has the time or inclination to show up at city hall.

"My view is there's no bad place to go and seek ideas," he said. "Shopping malls are a natural magnet for lots of people to congregate. Most of them

Fairness? Mayor to meet about get-tough tactic on Quebec contracting rules

Conservative MPP Jack MacLaren will meet with Mayor Jim Watson this week to discuss a private member's bill aimed at cross-border trucking and construction work.

Bill 80, sub-titled "Fairness is a Two-Way Street," would increase red tape for Quebec contractors who want to work in Ontario, in retaliation for restrictions Ontario workers face in Quebec.

"I have great sympathy for the concerns that some people have raised with respect to the unfairness because you have so many more hoops that you have to go through to get work in Quebec than you do here," Watson said, but added he worries about possible effects in Ottawa, which relies on Quebec workers.

"I'd like to ask him how do we make sure that we bring in something that is actually going to have the desired effect, but also is not going to hinder the growth of our construction industry," Watson said.

20 years on. Mulder, Scully intersection in Ottawa to host The X-Files block party

joe.lofaro@metronews.ca

Truth seekers near and far are invited to mark the 20th anniversary of paranormal TV series The X-Files with a block party and movie screening at the intersection of Mulder Avenue and Scully Way in Ottawa's east end.

Lisa Higgs, a community

co-ordinator at UsedOttawa.com and fan of the show, helped organize the event for next Friday — Friday the 13th.

"I'm the big X-Files fan in the office," said Higgs, "and so when I realized this was the 20th anniversary of The X-Files and I knew there was this funky little street corner in Ottawa, I put the two together and thought it would be a great fit. It seems to be a cool little secret in Ottawa."

After sundown, residents are expected to fill the intersection with lawn chairs as they watch the 2008 flick The X-Files: I Want to Believe on a large screen.

Paul Rothwell with Ashcroft Homes was the man behind the street naming about 10 or 12 years ago.

"I was a big fan of the show and I said we should make it Mulder and Scully," said Rothwell. "The word around the office was 'They'll never go for it.' And they did. To their credit, they approved it."

FBI special agents Fox Mulder (played by David Duchovny) and Dana Scully (Gillian Anderson) — one of the most famous duos on TV in the '90s — chased down paranormal phenomena during the show's nine seasons from 1993 to 2002. Anderson spoke about marking the 20th anniversary of the show while she was in Ottawa in May for Ottawa Comiccon.

Higgs said: "The X-Files was extremely popular in its time and even though it's 20 years old now, people still remember it. They still associate with it whether they saw it when they were a kid or as an adult. It was just such a huge cultural phenomenon that even people that never saw it know about it."

Proceeds from admission donations and a 50-50 draw will support Habitat for Humanity National Capital Region. Higgs said there will be food trucks and washrooms.

Full-day kindergarten a success, study finds

Preparing for Grade 1.
More than 60 schools in Ottawa set to implement program by the end of 2014

graham.lanktree@metronews.ca

Full-day kindergarten (FDK) is having an impressive impact on young children's learning, said Ottawa MPP Yasir Naqvi Tuesday as he marked a new school year and the release of a study examining Ontario's program.

"Now we have confirmation right here in Ontario that FDK works," said Naqvi, citing a study of 693 children by Queen's and McMaster universities from 2010 to 2012 released Tuesday. "It's really demonstrating some remarkable differences in the development of our children," Naqvi said, adding that vulnerable children are the biggest winners. The program arrives at 28 Ottawa schools in 2013.

Before full-day kindergarten in 2009, 27 per cent of children in Ontario were said to be less prepared to enter Grade 1 than their peers when it came to language and cognition, social competence, emotional maturity and general knowledge.

The study shows that percentage has dropped to 20.4 per cent after the introduction of FDK. Risks in language and cognitive development also dropped from 16.4 per cent to 4.3 per cent and the rollout reduced risks in communication skills and general knowledge by 4.9 per cent. The study used a UNESCO-reviewed measurement to gauge the success of full-day kindergarten.

"A lot of people who don't have the same socioeconomic footprint don't do the same as other people in reading or math," said Corpus Christi School's principal Michael Schreider. "This will give everyone the same footing," he said of all-day kindergarten.

Despite the results, full-day kindergarten's main advocate, Charles Pascal, whose 2009 report pushed Ontario to the full-day kindergarten model, said in August that the program falls short of his vision. "What we recommended was that a single employer, the school board, provide childcare for the four- and five-year-old kids," he told Torstar News Service on Aug. 16. "In most parts of the province, (the report) is not being implemented the way it was supposed to." In some areas of Ontario, schools are farming that care out to private childcare providers.

In Ottawa, school boards took on the responsibility of a full day of care at the city's schools and are prospering with short waiting lists. Still, some students are in portables, libraries and gyms because of incomplete renovations to expand space at several local schools.

Report. More than 8,000 women killed in India last year over dowry disputes

One woman dies every hour in India because of dowry-related crimes, indicating that the country's economic boom has made demands for dowries even more persistent, women's rights activists said Tuesday.

The National Crime Records Bureau says 8,233 women were killed across India last year because of disputes over dowry payments given by the bride's family to the groom or his family at the time of marriage.

The conviction rate in dowry-related crimes remained a low 32 per cent, according to statistics the bureau published last week.

Indian law prohibits the giving or receiving of a dowry, but the centuries-old social custom persists.

Lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender rights activists said Tuesday they have been invited to meet with U.S. President Barack Obama on the sidelines of this week's Group of 20 summit in Russia.

Obama and his administration have voiced concern over a law recently passed by Russia's parliament that targets "homosexual propaganda."

Boy sees no charges in child killing

Lee Bonneau, 6, was found dead in a wooded area of a Saskatchewan reserve last month. COURTESY RCMP

Saskatchewan. RCMP say boy would have seen murder charge if he was over age 12

ALYSSA MCDONALD
Metro in Regina

Lee Bonneau should have begun Grade 2 on Tuesday — but instead, it was a day when information about the six-year-old's grisly death, allegedly at the hands of another child, was released by police.

At a news conference in Regina, Sgt. Larry Brost, acting officer in charge of an RCMP major-crimes unit, confirmed that if the suspect had not been under the age of 12 — the age needed to face the legal system under the federal Youth Criminal Justice Act — he would have been charged with murder in the tragedy at a Saskatchewan First Nation.

"There is no other person at this point in time in the investigation that could be responsible, other than this child," Brost told reporters at RCMP divisional headquarters.

The boy — whose age has not been made public due to privacy legislation — is in the custody of the Ministry of Social Services and is being held at an out-of-home facility equipped with 24-hour supervision.

He is deemed "in need of protection," according to Social Services, while medical and other professionals determine the kind of treatment and supervision he will require.

Lee died on Aug. 21 at southeast Saskatchewan's Kahkewistahaw First Nation from head trauma caused by a weapon — not a gun or knife, police confirmed, but a weapon "of opportunity."

Lee had last been seen walking with the other boy after he went missing from a community centre, where his caregiver was playing bingo.

Lee, whose funeral was held on Friday, was a ward of a foster home just outside the reserve near Broadview.

The two boys did not know each other.

SIU probe. Elderly woman falls, fractures hip after being Tasered by police Ontario's police watchdog is investigating an incident in which they say an 80-year-old woman fell and suffered a fractured hip after she was struck by police with a Taser.

Special Investigations Unit spokeswoman Monica Hudon said three Peel Region officers approached the woman around 3:30 a.m. last Wednesday as she was walking along a road in Mississauga.

Hudon said officers spoke with the woman until "at some point" an officer fired his Taser.

Hudon said the elderly woman fell to the ground and was rushed to Credit Valley Hospital for treatment.

The incident occurred one day after the province announced it would permit all front-line police officers to carry stun guns.

The use of force by police in Ontario has come under scrutiny after Sammy Yatim, 18, was shot multiple times and Tasered by police during a confrontation on an empty

Police arsenal

Many police forces, including the Ontario Provincial Police and Toronto Police Services, have said they plan to train and equip their officers with stun guns, in addition to the sidearm, extendable baton and pepper spray that they currently carry.

streetcar.

Videos of the incident prompted hundreds of people to take to the streets.

Another high-profile case that brought the police's use of Tasers under public scrutiny was the 2007 death of a Polish immigrant at Vancouver's airport.

Robert Dziekanski died after being stunned with a Taser by RCMP officers. A public inquiry found that the officers were not justified in using the Taser.

The hunt goes on

Grizzlies in crosshairs.
The B.C. government refuses to recognize First Nations tribal ban

LUKE BROCKI
Metro in Vancouver

Trophy hunting of grizzly bears on B.C.'s central coast continues while First Nations struggle to enforce a year-old tribal law banning hunters from killing the animals for sport, Metro has learned.

A source asking to remain anonymous provided Metro with photographic evidence of a hunter showing off the severed head and paws of a grizzly bear after a spring hunting trip last May in the Kwatna River estuary.

"They are photos that were taken by one of my field technicians this spring," confirmed Jessie Housty, an elected Heiltsuk tribal councillor and member of the Coastal First Nations Bear Working Group, a program whose staff have been patrolling and erecting signs in areas of high hunting activity.

"Our technician was invited onto the hunter's boat and had a conversation with him. The man in the photo identified himself ... as being Clayton Stoner."

A Minnesota Wild spokesman confirmed Tuesday afternoon the man in the photo was Stoner, a 28-year-old defenceman originally from Port McNeill, B.C.

"I grew up hunting and fishing in British Columbia and continue to enjoy spending time with my family outdoors," Stoner wrote in an email.

"I applied for and received a grizzly-bear hunting licence

Killed annually

The B.C. Ministry of Forests, Lands and Natural Resource Operations estimates some 300 grizzlies are harvested in the province every year.

Sacred or sport?

"We consider bears to be our close relatives and have many stories and ceremonies that reinforce that connection. It's incredibly offensive to us that anyone would kill for sport."

Jessie Housty, an elected Heiltsuk tribal councillor and member of the Coastal First Nations Bear Working Group through a British Columbia limited-entry lottery last winter and shot a grizzly bear with my licence while hunting with my father, uncle and a friend in May. I love to hunt and fish and will continue to do so."

Stoner is not the first NHL player to attract criticism. Last year, Canucks winger David Booth tweeted a photo of a black bear he had killed on a hunting trip in Alberta, saying: "Just killed a Chara sized bruin! 7ft black bear - 21in skull."

The tweet proved controversial because Booth had used a technique called bear baiting, which is allowed in Alberta but illegal in B.C.

The fall bear-hunting season now opening across B.C. (the activity is regulated by the provincial government) and Housty said it remains difficult to enforce the tribal ban, since the province doesn't recognize its authority.

She argues hunting for sport is also a threat to the sustainable economic opportunities, including eco-tourism, that First Nations groups have been exploring.

"Bears are worth far more alive than they are dead."

A spokesman for the B.C. Minister of Forests, Lands and Natural Resource Operations said there were at least 15,000 grizzlies living in the province.

Officials have released 3,786 limited authorizations allowing hunters to shoot and kill bears during this year's spring and fall seasons.

Hot car just can't take the heat off skyscraper

Melting pot. Owner of Jaguar says sunlight off building melted mirror, hood ornament and panels on his car

Drivers may want to think twice about parking in front of an under-construction London skyscraper known as the Walkie-Talkie because glare off the 37-storey building is so intense that at least one Jaguar owner says it caused part of his vehicle to melt.

And that's not all: Locals say the building's heat also burned a hole in the welcome mat of a barber shop across the street. "We were working and just saw the smoke coming out of the carpet," said shop owner Ali Akay.

Developers Land Securities and Canary Wharf said the problem lasts about two hours a day and is expected to continue for another two to three weeks. "The phenomenon is caused by the current elevation of the sun in the sky," they explained.

Burning question

A burned spot, believed to be caused by the reflected rays of the sun, on the doormat of a barber shop across the street from the 37-storey skyscraper at 20 Fenchurch St. in London.

In the meantime, the companies said they will erect a temporary scaffold screen at street level to minimize the problem. They said they have also asked city authorities to suspend parking in three spaces.

Similar problems have plagued other modern buildings, including in Los Angeles, where neighbours of the Frank Gehry-designed Walt Disney Concert Hall reported heat buildups that required corrective measures. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

N. Korea. Ex-NBA star to hang with 'my friend Kim'

Former NBA star Dennis Rodman landed Tuesday in North Korea and said he plans to hang out with authoritarian leader Kim Jong Un, have a good time and maybe bridge some cultural gaps — but not be a diplomat.

His trip comes just days after Pyongyang rejected a visit by a U.S. envoy who had hoped to bring home Kenneth Bae, an American missionary jailed there.

Speaking to reporters in Beijing ahead of his flight Rodman declined to say whether he would seek Bae's release. "I just want to meet my friend Kim, the marshal, and start a basketball league over there or something like that," said Rodman.

Microsoft steps up mobile push with Nokia acquisition

Helsinki. Handset deal is an attempt to narrow gap with Apple, Google

Microsoft Corp. is buying Nokia Corp.'s lineup of smartphones and a portfolio of patents and services in an effort to strengthen its fight with Apple and Google, and capture a slice of the lucrative mobile computing market.

The $7.2-billion US deal marks a major step in the company's push to transform itself from a software maker focused on desktop and laptop computers into a more versatile and nimble company that delivers services on any kind of Internet-connected gadget.

No Key Lime Pie 4.4 for you

Seems that when little green robots eat candy bars, they opt for a Kit Kat. Tech pundits have speculated for months that the next Android operating system would be called Key Lime Pie — in keeping with Google's affinity for naming new versions after desserts — but on Tuesday the firm revealed it has chosen a brand-name candy for the first time. The Android 4.4 Kit Kat system is expected to launch in October, and in turn, the robot mascot is pictured tucking into a chocolate bar on the new Kit Kat label, shown above. Marc Vanlerberghe, director of Android Marketing, said the name was chosen because Kit Kat bars have been a "favourite go-to snack among the team since the early days of Android." Auto safety. Hackers can now take over cars

As cars become more like PCs on wheels, what's to stop a hacker from taking over yours?

In recent demonstrations, hackers have shown they can slam a car's brakes at freeway speeds, jerk the steering wheel and even shut down the engine — all from their laptops.

The hackers are publicizing their work to reveal vulnerabilities present in a growing number of car computers. All cars and trucks contain anywhere from 20 to 70 computers. They control everything from the brakes to acceleration to the windows, and are connected to an internal network. A few hackers have recently managed to find their way into these intricate networks.

To be sure, the "hackers" involved were well-intentioned computer security experts, and it took them months to break into the computers. And there have been no real-world cases of a hacker remotely taking over a car.

But experts say high-tech hijackings will get easier as automakers give cars full Internet access and add computer-controlled safety devices.

Wireless market

After Verizon fuss, cell prices could creep up again

A decision by U.S. giant Verizon to no longer try to enter Canada's wireless market may mean Canadians could soon end up paying more on their cellphone bills, say several analysts.

The prospect of Verizon's entry had produced more options for consumers as the country's big three wireless carriers offered new data sharing plans, previously unavailable for smartphones and tablets, telecom analyst Iain Grant said Tuesday.

"If nothing else, even the spectre of Verizon coming here was enough to change pricing in the Canadian market," Grant said. "Without Verizon, will prices creep up? I think, sadly, the answer is probably yes." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Halifax. Mall that ran sexist ads donates $5K

Halifax's Mic Mac Mall has made a $5,000 donation to a group that supports young women exploring careers in science and technology.

The donation fulfills a promise made in response to a social media backlash and complaints that a back-to-school advertising campaign was sexist. The ads featured cartoon women with slogans equating shopping with scientific endeavour. The mall pulled the ads in late August and promised to make a donation to an organization that empowers young women.

On Tuesday, the mall said it will give the funds to Techsploration, which provides opportunities for female students in Grades 9 through 12 to explore careers in science, trades and technology. METRO IN HALIFAX

WHAT DID YOU DO ON THE WEEKEND?

Weekend warriors are a dime a dozen.

They're out running marathons, hanging off cliff faces, riding their bicycles up steep switchbacks, or playing hockey at three in the morning because that's the only ice time available.

They whack various little round balls with various sticks and rackets.

They run, jump, throw, slide and stretch. Unlike real athletes, who vie for world records or record paydays, they do all of this for next to zero recognition — a cheap medal, a certificate, a plastic water bottle, a trophy from Trophies R Us.

They get hurt. Sometimes they die. But unless they die, they don't quit.

Then there's Diana Nyad.

What she did this weekend goes into the Weekend Warrior Hall of Fame. She accomplished what she had already

JUST SAYIN'
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

failed to do four times: Become the first person to swim the 177 kilometres from Cuba to the Florida Keys, without a shark cage.

If that last detail doesn't get your attention, how about she spent 53 hours in the water, swallowed so much seawater that she vomited early and often, was stung by jellyfish, but like the Energizer Bunny in a wet-suit, she just kept going until she hit the beach in Florida.

Did I mention that she is 64 years old?

Why did she do it?

How about she "wants to send a message of peace, love, friendship and happiness ... between the people of the United States and Cuba."

Other people might send an email.

Diana Nyad has had this "Xtreme Dream" since 1978 when she tried and failed the first time.

At the time, she was already a long-distance swimmer who set the world record for swimming around the Island of Manhattan in under eight hours.

Then, life got in the way, but she never forgot her unfinished business and after a 30-year layoff, she tried again in 2011. And again. And again. And again in 2012.

Frankly, I thought she was done the last time. But never count a weekend warrior out. They can't help themselves.

A cynic (that's usually me) could say she's a motivational speaker and author (her books have titles like The Boss of Me) and needs fresh material to remain in demand on the lecture circuit — after all she charges up to $40K a pop.

But really? What would you rather do: Face sharks, jellyfish, choking brine, storms, waves, nausea and fatigue? Or find another topic?

Or you could do what most 64-year-olds do. Think about retiring.

But I suspect Diana Nyad is not done yet.

Not as long as there's still another weekend.

Vin Diesel returns to the Pitch Black series in his role as Richard B. Riddick. CONTRIBUTED

Going from the sexiest ugly man to Richard B. Riddick

Vin Diesel. Few know that the Fast and Furious and Pitch Black star has been acting since age seven and has a long list of accomplishments

IN FOCUS
Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

Vin Diesel has been acting since age seven and played many characters on screen, but he is best known by two alter egos.

We'll have to wait until next year to see him behind the wheel as Dominic Toretto in the new Fast and Furious movie, but this weekend he returns to theatres as Richard B. Riddick, anti-hero of the Pitch Black series of films and video games.

In Riddick, his fourth outing as the mercenary-turned-enforcer, he has been double-crossed and left for dead.

His battles with predatory aliens has honed his skills, his thirst for revenge and his desire to return to his home planet of Furya.

Diesel loves playing Riddick. "I know it sounds corny but I feel like I learn about myself when I play that character," he says.

But he's also created some other memorable characters.

Critics and audiences first took notice of Diesel as Private Caparzo in Saving Private Ryan. He says winning the role was "like one of those Hollywood fairy tales that you never believed."

Director Steven Spielberg saw Multi-Facial, an über low budget short film directed by and starring Diesel.

The ET director was so taken with the young actor's performance that he had a role specially written for him. The result was an effective performance that mixed physicality with poignancy.

Diesel lent his distinctive gravelly voice to the title character in the animated film The Iron Giant.

Directed by Brad Bird, the story of a lonely boy who discovers a 50-foot, metal-eating robot who fell from space, failed at the box office but has a 97 per cent Rotten Tomatoes rating.

His searing portrayal of streetwise stockbroker Chris Varick in the 2000 stockbroker drama Boiler Room garnered him considerable critical praise.

Roger Ebert wrote, "Diesel is interesting. Something will come of him," and New York Times critic A.O. Scott said the actor, "may be the sexiest ugly man in movies since Anthony Quinn."

Knockaround Guys is a coming-of-age story with a gangland twist.

The four sons (Vin Diesel, Seth Green, Barry Pepper, and Andrew Davoli) of Brooklyn mobsters band together to reclaim a quarter of a million dollars lost in a small town run by a crooked sheriff (Tom Noonan).

Diesel oozes charisma in a so-so film, tossing off tough guy lines like, "That's about the only thing you can count on in this life, there's nobody that wouldn't hurt you ... if it helped them," with ease.

Being the only girl in the room on Riddick

In Riddick, Katee Sackhoff co-stars alongside Vin Diesel as Dahl, the only female member of a team of mercenaries — but also one of its toughest.

Riddick is very funny, surprisingly.

My best friend is terrified of scary movies. She's going to the premiere and she was like, "How scared am I going to be?" And I was like, "Sweetie, it's not scary."

Do you worry about doing what you're already known for when looking for parts?

I think people spend too much time trying to understand this business when you can't understand it. I don't think there's any real right way or wrong way to do this. Truthfully, I feel blessed that people want me to do it at all, and if that's science fiction and action, I'd rather do that than so many other genres. So I'm good.

It doesn't mean that I can't do and haven't done things outside of it; it's just where fans want to see me right now. You give them what they want, you know?

Old-school comedy goes quicker, faster and funnier

Package Deal.

Executive producer says character development takes a backseat to rapid-fire delivery these days

There was a time when an audience would hear how a show was “filmed in front of a live studio audience” rather than the rumbling ha-ha-has of a laugh track. City’s new show Package Deal is a return to the old-school ways of comedy.

“It was my first time doing anything live,” admitted Julia Votch, who plays the woman who comes between three close brothers in this original series.

“I haven’t done theatre ... so I was a bit nervous, but the first time hearing them laugh at you and what you are doing, it felt so great and it heightened everyone’s performance.”

Executive produced by Andrew Orenstein, and also starring Randal Edwards, Jay Malone and Harland Williams, the series was to premiere in the spring, and then summer, before being pushed into the fall by City.

It will now air Mondays starting Sept. 30, edged between How I Met Your Mother and 2 Broke Girls.

“For the first time in my career we were actually bumped for hockey,” joked

Orenstein, who worked on Malcolm in the Middle and 3rd Rock from the Sun. “I think it is a nice vote of confidence for the show that, you know, they looked at our show, and they went and looked at the other shows that they are buying, and thought, ‘Well, heck, it would fit in nicely.’”

Orenstein says that in the last 10 or 15 years, the reality of situational comedy shows has changed. There used to be time to develop characters at the expense of rapid-fire jokes, but the reverse is now true.

“The world is quicker,” he said. “You have to be quicker and faster and funnier.”

ANNUAL CIBC RUN FOR THE CURE ON OCT. 6

On Oct. 6, the annual Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation CIBC Run for the Cure is taking place across Canada, including 30 communities in Ontario. One in nine Canadian women will be diagnosed with breast cancer in her lifetime, and 23,800 will be told they have the disease this year.

The families, friends and co-workers of those women play an important role in raising funds at the largest single-day event in support of the breast cancer cause. One of them is Bonnie Stanfield of the Greater Toronto Area, whose daughter, Holly Smart, died of the disease in 2010 at age 34.

Smart was a schoolteacher, had been married for 10 years and was the mother of two sons who were four years old and 14 months old when she died.

“When I formed my first Holly’s Dollies team in 2010, I was running in memory of my daughter and for the cure,” says Stanfield, whose husband, Peter, Smart’s stepfather, is among many other regular strong supporters.

After Smart died, Stanfield learned that she carries the BRCA 1 mutated gene, which has been linked to hereditary breast cancer.

“My reasons for running now also include my gratitude for the research and discovery of this gene.”

In August 2012, as a preventive measure, Stanfield, then 63, had a bilateral mastectomy and reconstructive surgery; she no longer worries that she will get the disease.

“Breast cancer research made this possible,” she says.

After months of speculation, it was announced that handsome Southern crooner Harry Connick Jr. and former American Idol judge Jennifer Lopez are officially joining American Idol 13.

The two join Keith Urban on the judge's panel; stalwart Randy Jackson will be back as an "in-house" mentor.

And, what would Idol be without Ryan Seacrest? The personality, of course, will be back as host.

"I have always been a huge fan of American Idol and really enjoyed my time as a mentor on the show," said Connick in a press release.

"And I am honoured that they've asked me to be a judge this season. As an entertainer, I am truly excited to bring my perspective to American Idol and to help emerging performers find their way."

For her take on the announcement, Lopez simply tweeted, "#IDOL-2014TheRemix."

Hopefully the addition of Connick and Lopez will help this new season's ratings. This past season was American Idol's worst rated since the show began airing in 2002.

Will and Jada Pinkett Smith have decided to ditch their sprawling, palatial Calabasas, Calif., compound, according to the Real Estalker blog.

The Hollywood power couple is reportedly looking to get $42 million for the property, which features a 25,000 square foot adobe-style main house, man-made lakes, a hotel-size pool and facilities for tennis, volleyball and basketball.

The family sold a property on the Hawaiian island of Kauai for $20 million in 2011.

The sun is shining and the weather is sweet in Jamaica

Island time. Beyond the beautiful beaches are great restaurants and exciting activities

@jimbyerstravel
jimbyerstravel.com

Rum bars filled with colourful locals, glorious beaches, waterfalls you can climb and romantic river rafts. Yep, Jamaica has a lot to offer.

Of course, there are the swanky resorts and infamous spots such as Hedonism, where just about anything goes, including a lot of bathing suits. And don't forget the jerk shacks that waft heavenly spices out over the island and the reggae music.

Sleeping

Negril has awesome sunsets and an endless beach flanked by resorts such as Beaches, Sandals and the aforementioned Hedonism. Further north and east are the impeccable grounds of Half Moon, a RockResort, equipped with a fun and not too tricked-up golf course, a sweeping beach and a who's who list of attendees, including Queen Elizabeth and

Diving into the perfect water near Rick's Café. Just watch your Red Stripe intake before you jump. PHOTOS JIM BYERS/METRO

Paul Simon. My personal favourite resort for a taste of local culture is Jakes at Treasure Beach, a spot on the south side of the island with pseudo-Moroccan design and glorious detached villas in bright ochre and pale blue.

Dining

Half Moon features the romantic Sugar Mill restaurant, with a gorgeous patio lit up by overhead lights hanging from gnarly trees. Try the snapper in a coconut-saffron sauce or jerk chicken spring rolls. A favourite for casual jerk chicken is Scotchie's near the Montego Bay Airport, where you can fill your belly for less than $10. In the Montego Bay Freeport zone is the fabulous House Boat restaurant, reached by a three-second ferry/raft. Gaze out on the bay and the lights in the hills and dine on spicy shrimp in a scotch bonnet beurre blanc sauce or a Queen Conch fritter. Jakes at Treasure Beach has a marvelous kitchen. Next door on the beach is Jack Spratts, which serves a fabulous jerk sausage pizza.

Doing

At Half Moon you can take a horseback ride and swim with the animals, who love nothing more on a hot day than submersing themselves in the cool ocean water. Dunn's River Falls is famous as a playground where you can clamber up large rocks and dunk yourself in the cool water running down from the mountains. Prefer to let someone else do the work? Try a romantic rafting trip on the peaceful Martha Brae River near Falmouth, where a local will guide you along on a wide bamboo raft under a jungle canopy.

Drinking

If you must, you can down Jell-O shots or any number of sickly sweet things at Jimmy Buffett Margaritaville on the Hip Strip in Montego Bay, which is jammed to the rafters with cruise ship day-trippers and has a cool waterslide that drops you a couple stories into the bay. You don't want to miss Rick's Café, south of Negril. The water is the most beautiful shade of aquamarine imaginable, and local kids will do handstands and crazy dives off huge cliffs for a couple of bucks. You can try a belly-flop of your own from several spots, too. Take a boat ride from the south shore to the ramshackle Pelican Bar, which sits in a few feet of warm water a half mile or so off the coast and looks to be mostly made up of driftwood, with a thatched roof. Very memorable.

Autumn travel

Put a little colour in your trip this fall

ON THE MOVE
Loren Christie
lifen@metronews.ca

If you are a leaf peeper the next six weeks provide numerous opportunities for a fabulous fall getaway. The proliferation of maples and birches in Eastern Canada and their vibrant and varied fall colours make a trip in this part of the country particularly appealing.

In Ontario, the Agawa Canyon Tour Train takes riders through an explosion of colour. The rail cars were fully renovated last year with a camera at the front of the car that broadcasts to flat screens in the passenger cars so you can get a "conductor's view" of the journey. A GPS triggered commentary announces points of interest and shares the history of the region. There are packages available that include train tickets, two night accommodations and options for meals. Book now, as availability is already limited.

If you are heading elsewhere in the province check out ontariotravel.net for live updates on the fall colour report. Download the app when you head out on your journey and browse the site for a wide variety of autumn packages including a Mennonite Horse and Buggy package.

Nova Scotia's Cabot Trail is a spectacular drive year-round, but at this time of year, it's at its best. Plan a trip in mid-October and catch part of the 16th Celtic Colours Festival.

Running from Oct. 11 through 19 this annual event features community dinners, shows and 46 concerts with local Celtic and international musicians. Throughout Quebec from the Eastern Townships to Charlevoix, many of the province's ski resorts will be turned into fall festival headquarters with a variety of hillside leaf peeping opportunities coupled with barbecues, live music and numerous family activities. In British Columbia they are celebrating the 33rd annual Fall Okanagan Wine Festival. More than 165 wine, food, educational and arts-focused events are set to fill the roster from Oct. 4 through to Oct. 14.

In a bit of a pickle...

Once again the aroma of hot vinegar and pickling spices is wafting through Canadian kitchens, and colourful jars of pickled vegetables and sauces are lining countertops. It seems the "lost art" of pickling is not lost at all.

Janet Nezon realized it last year when her Introduction to Home Canning seminars in Toronto attracted 570 registrants. When Toronto's Cookbook Store held a class last fall on fermentation, people came all the way from Rochester, N.Y., says store manager Alison Fryer.

This resurgence of interest in a cooking practice earlier generations did out of necessity is blossoming among mainly women in their 20s and 30s.

"The vast majority (of seminar attendees) were new to canning and pickling," says Nezon of Thornhill, Ont., owner of Rainbow Plate, a company she started to educate children and adults about healthy eating.

"They know they're not reinventing the wheel," Fryer says. "These are ancient arts. But it seems to be the younger generation who are interested."

Tradition is likely one factor in the rejuvenation, says Nezon, a daughter and granddaughter of picklers.

Pickled Carrots With Oregano and Peppers are a favourite of Nezon's family.

Because the carrots are raw, she advises letting them sit for a week or so before trying the carrots to let them absorb the flavour.

She also says the finished jars are "gorgeous."

1. Place two 500-ml (2-cup) jars (minus lids) in hot water in canner and place lids in simmering water on the stove. (It's not necessary to sterilize the jars.)

2. In a bowl, combine oregano, sweet peppers and hot pepper flakes.

3. Remove hot jars from canner and divide pepper mixture between them.

4. Add 1 clove garlic to each jar and fill each with half the carrots, leaving a little more than 1 cm (1/2 inch) headspace. Pack carrots tightly.

5. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan, combine vinegar, water, sugar and salt and bring to a boil.

6. Pour hot liquid over carrots, making sure to cover them but leaving 1 cm (1/2 inch) of headspace between liquid and rim.

7. Process jars in a boiling water canner for 15 minutes for 500-ml (2-cup) jars.

Your thoughts?

@TalentEgg: #QuestionoftheDay: Have you ever studied or worked abroad and would you recommend it? Why?

- @katieedmonds1: I worked in Cape Town, SA for 4 months - best time of my life. So liberating to experience other cultures and make new friends!
- @theToineTweets: On the last month of my year in Wales. Ironically you get to meet people from different cultures and yet gain great autonomy.
- @davehoward: Worked in China for 4 months - way outside of my comfort zone! As an independent guy, I learned to trust and rely on others.
- @kendy_ra: Studied in Chile, worked in Bangladesh, working in Tajikistan. Completely changed me and helped me realize career & life priorities
- @jaspal91: Recommend it 100%. I studied in Manchester. Greatest decision ever. So much fun, met great people and learnt so much!
- @diananguyen_: in Paris was the best decision of my undergrad career so far. Learned skills you can't learn inside a classroom.
- @pegsz: I volunteered this year in Czech Republic, would love to go again! Being in a new place was a refreshing & rewarding experience.

#WhatNotToDo: The faux-pas of a professional Twitter page

When hitting send impedes success.

How tweet it is to take advantage of this tool. Just make sure you use it properly!

JESSICA CRUZ

TalentEgg.ca

Ah, the wonderful world of Twitter. A land where users post their most random thoughts, check out the latest sports updates and watch in awe as celebrities make gross grammatical errors.

But if that's all they're doing, visitors to Twitter may be missing out. It turns out that the social network can be a great asset to the job hunt, provided the job-searcher avoids a few common mistakes along the way.

Don't keep your settings private

It's OK to keep personal accounts on Twitter for friends. But if you're using Twitter for job searches and networking, your account needs to be accessible. How can anyone respond to your tweets? You might connect with a recruiter who is at the same conference as you, get instant updates on that job you've been waiting for or even win a contest.

Transparency is key when utilizing social media for developing your personal brand, job hunting or networking. It also opens doors for other people to contact you about opportunities and learn more

Connect with others!

Twitter was created for casual interaction

- If you find a company you like, follow them. If you find a campus recruiter from the same company, follow them, and retweet or respond to their tweets.
- Twitter can be used as a learning tool as much as a social tool. Combine these experiences and output productivity for your job hunt from your time online.

about you.

Don't mix too much of your personal life with your professional life

Remember the purpose of the account. Keep in mind that an online account means 24/7 access for potential employers. The second something goes up, someone will see it.

Post on different channels with your own discretion, or don't post it at all. An open account should not mean unlimited access to your life.

Don't exaggerate your job title

Keep your tagline current, direct, and about your profession. Use a decent photo and include a helpful link and customized background.

It's good to show a bit of personality, but try to keep the content relevant to your industry and how you want others to see you.

Don't hide behind your hashtags. If you want an employer to pick you out of the crowd, make your account public.

Don't be too controversial

Avoid topics like politics or starting arguments with other users.

Don't skew an employer's impression of your values.

Separating business and personal opinions helps you keep your personal life from affecting your professional life.

Don't be ashamed to boost yourself up

Remember that you're using

Twitter as a personal branding tool. It's good to mention accomplishments, events or milestones in your life. Decide how much is appropriate — your online presence may be the strongest first impression.

Don't forget to check your interactions

Stay updated with who is interacting with you.

Check your mentions for retweets, replies and followers. Regularly check your direct messages (DM) to see if someone contacted you.

Take a glance at profiles who retweeted, DM or mentioned you. See what they tweet about; perhaps you'll find a common interest or a potential employer.

You may be an employee when at least some of the following describes your working arrangement:

- You receive training from the company
- The company supervises your work
- You do not have control over your work, hours or rate of pay
- You work with tools or equipment that the company provides

You may be an independent contractor when some of the following describes your working arrangement:

- You control how your work is done. You may hire other people to assist in doing the work and you (not the company) direct their work
- You can negotiate your pay and when your work has to be done
- You are not an integral part of the company

So am I a full-timer or a free agent?

The blurred lines of business. Being employed doesn't necessarily mean that you're an "employee"

PARISA NIKFARJAM
TalentEgg.ca

You may be finding that you or your friends are increasingly entering into working relationships where you're an "independent contractor" rather than an employee.

Why? Employers often prefer hiring independent contractors for the cost savings. Contractors do not receive benefit packages, pensions or other perquisites provided to employees. They do not have entitlements to basic employment rights such as minimum wage, overtime pay, health and safety protections, job-protected leaves and human rights protections.

On the other hand, contractors benefit from a big (tax) advantage, in that they can deduct reasonable business expenses at tax time.

Despite potential benefits, there are significant drawbacks if a contractor is truly an employee, including unpaid taxes (for both the employer and the contractor), penalties, interest, CPP, EI, and other legal liability (under the Human Rights Code and the Employment Standards Act).

Even if you sign a contract which states that you are an independent contractor, you may still be an employee.

What determines whether you are an employee or an independent contractor is the nature of the relationship; in other words, how your work is actually performed. Therefore, even if you sign a contract that says you're an independent contractor, you may still have rights and obligations as an employee.

As the final determination depends on the individual facts and circumstances of each arrangement, remember that old saying about the duck: if you act like an employee and are treated like an employee (in all but receiving the benefits/protections of an employee), you're likely an employee, notwithstanding intentions to the contrary.

Brave the new world of books and buds

Got the new-school spooks? Any first can bring on fear, but these tips can help the post-secondary pupil start with confidence

JULIA WEST

Metro World News

There's no getting away from it; the TV commercials are all pointing to one thing: It's back-to-school time.

Only this year is different because you're ditching that dusty high school to enter college. It'll be strange, emotional and definitely scary at first. With a little help from those who already learned the ropes, we found out what it takes to make it through your first year.

Meet new people

Each activity — orientation, dorm hall meetings and even class — can be an opportunity to chat up someone new. "Don't be afraid to branch out and meet new people. There is nothing that says you can only hang out with people from your high school," advises Mitch Verboncoeur, a senior resident adviser at Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla. Matt Aiello, a resident adviser at Vermont Tech, suggests using dorm time as a way to interact with fellow newbies. "Keep your door open," he says. "Living in a residence hall can be scary, but simply leaving your door open lets your floor mates know that you are interested in meeting new people, and others will jump at the opportunity to talk to someone new."

Participate in class

Education is the bulk of the reason you're in college, so soak it up. "Be vocal in class and don't be afraid to speak your mind," Aiello says. "You're in college now, you are allowed to disagree. After all, you're paying for your education and only you can ensure that you get the most for your money. "Sitting in the back of the room quietly taking notes might get you through the course, but your education is in your hands now. Make something of it."

Wait to hit the books

College is pricey; cut costs where you can. It's risky, but Aiello suggests not buying textbooks. "At least not right away," he says. "In my experience, many classes are listed as requiring a textbook, but some teachers give handouts with all of the information you will need, and some don't even teach to the text at all. Wait a week or so into the semester to test the waters in each of your classes to get an idea of if you will need the book or not."

"Who knows, you might just meet an upperclassman in that week that will sell you the book for a fraction of the price."

Novak Djokovic won his fourth-round U.S. Open match against Marcel Granollers in convincing fashion on Tuesday in New York. JOE SCARNICI/GETTY IMAGES

Djokovic love-loses his latest victim

U.S. Open. Top-ranked men's player shuts out Granollers over final two sets to advance to quarter-finals

Showing the kind of beginning-to-end focus he'll need to win the U.S. Open, top-seeded Novak Djokovic strung together 13 straight games Tuesday to close out a 6-3, 6-0, 6-0 thrashing of Marcel Granollers and advance to his 18th straight Grand Slam quarter-final.

"Today, second and third set have been some of the best tennis that I've played on Arthur Ashe in my career," said Djokovic, who has made the final at Flushing Meadows the last three years and won it in 2011.

"It all comes at a great time for me. It was something I was wishing to be more aggressive as the tournament progresses and to be able to stay committed to play every point, to win every point, regardless of the score."

The match took 79 minutes against Granollers, who was on court for nearly three and a half hours two days before in a five-set win over Tim Smyczek.

Over the final two sets, Djokovic had embarrassingly large advantages in points (50-15) and winners (22-3), and he even won on 21 of 22 moves up to net, which isn't his normal style.

Djokovic has spent a total of five hours and 42 minutes on court without dropping a set. He has lost more than three games in any single set only once, against Benjamin Becker, who actually had a pair of set points in the first set of their second-round match, but lost them both. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Women's draw

No. 2 Victoria Azarenka rallied from a set down for the second straight match, beating Ana Ivanovic 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

- Later Tuesday, fifth-seeded Li Na beat No. 24-seeded Ekaterina Makarova 6-4, 6-7 (5), 6-2 and No. 1-seeded Serena Williams shut out 18th-seeded Carla Suarez Navarro 6-0, 6-0 to advance to the semifinals.

Accused murderer requests delay in Florida lawsuit

Former NFL star tight end Aaron Hernandez is seeking to delay proceedings in a Florida lawsuit until a murder charge against him in Massachusetts is resolved.

Hernandez's lawyers filed the postponement request Tuesday in federal court. They say it would be legally unfair to Hernandez to permit the lawsuit to continue while he is defending himself in the shooting death of 27-year-old Odin Lloyd. Hernandez has pleaded not guilty to Lloyd's slaying and weapons charges.

In the Florida lawsuit, 30-year-old Alexander Bradley claims Hernandez shot him in the face after they argued at a strip club in February. Bradley seeks at least $100,000 in damages. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clady familiar with season-opening foe

NFL. Broncos prepare for return of Ravens pass rusher Dumervil on Thursday in Denver

For years, Denver Broncos left tackle Ryan Clady blocked one of the league's top pass rushers in practice.

Get beat by Elvis Dumervil then and it was hardly a big deal, especially since the quarterbacks couldn't be touched anyway.

That deal is now off as Clady tries to keep Peyton Manning safe from the Growing rivalry

"They beat us fair and square. But that game will always be with me."

Denver wide receiver Eric Decker after being asked if the Broncos had unfinished business after their loss to Baltimore in the playoffs last season.

dangerous Dumervil, who returns to Mile High on Thursday night as a hybrid linebacker for the Baltimore Ravens after departing Denver in the off-season.

"He's a good player in this league and he's definitely a challenge," said Clady, who was named one of the team's captains this week. "I'm looking forward to the challenge and just playing my game, seeing if I can get the best of him."

Clady knows Dumervil's moves quite well — how he relies on leverage and his long arms to blow past offensive tackles. That's the way Dumervil collected an NFL-leading 17 sacks in 2009.

And Dumervil knows Clady quite well, too — how the six-foot-six, 315-pound left tackle uses his quick feet to thwart rushers. Clady is coming off a Pro Bowl season in which he allowed just one sack.

It's an intriguing matchup, one that's going to take some getting used to for offensive co-ordinator Adam Gase.

"Just seeing (Dumervil) with a different team, it's weird to watch because I'm just used to seeing him in our uniform," Gase said. "He's a good player and we'll be ready for him."

Raps dump new recruit Richardson

The Toronto Raptors waived swingman Quentin Richardson on Tuesday, less than two months after he was acquired in a trade with the New York Knicks.

The Raptors shipped forward Andrea Bargnani to New York on July 10, receiving Richardson, centre Marcus Camby, forward Steve Novak and three draft picks in the deal.

Waiving Richardson wasn't unexpected, as the 13-year NBA veteran was only part of the July deal for salary considerations.

Earlier, the Raptors bought out Camby, who went on to sign with the Houston Rockets.

Toronto, which opens the pre-season Oct. 7 in Boston, now has 14 players on its roster.

NHL. Crawford's big contract is going rate for top goalies this summer

As difficult as it is to win the Stanley Cup, it's even harder to repeat. That's to say nothing of a goaltender winning two titles, something that hasn't been done since Martin Brodeur with the New Jersey Devils in 2000 and 2003.

So when the Chicago Blackhawks gave Corey Crawford a six-year, $36-million contract, the 28-year-old goalie saw it as a sign of management's confidence in him to "try and repeat and go for more championships in the future." Crawford will get his first cup ring early this season after putting up a playoff-best 1.84 goals-against average during Chicago's run last spring.

And while Crawford's contract was scrutinized for his short track record of success, similar deals handed out this off-season show that this is simply the going rate for a franchise goaltender, even one who might not be seen in the same light as Tuukka Rask of the Boston Bruins or Mike Smith of the Phoenix Coyotes.

"The reality is we need to have a top-notch goaltender in our organization, and we've got one right in-house here in Corey," Blackhawks general

Four of the eight goaltenders to win the cup since the 2004-05 lockout have received lucrative deals since, including Jonathan Quick getting 10 years and $58 million from the Los Angeles Kings and Cam Ward getting six years and $37.8 million from the Carolina Hurricanes.

manager Stan Bowman said. "It was never a question in our minds that we want to commit to him because it's the most important position we have and we have a lot of faith in his ability." THE CANADIAN PRESS

The 2014 Infiniti Q50

ALL PHOTOS WHEELBASEMEDIA.COM

Review. This beauty beats the G37 and will get all your senses moving

MALCOLM GUNN
wheelbasemedia.com

A new name and a slew of techno enhancements are the first clues that Infiniti's Q50 sedan is something special.

But with nearly every member of Nissan's upscale division switching to new alphanumeric identification along with, in most cases, reconfigured sheet-metal, it isn't the only interesting car on Infiniti's plate for 2014. Although it was thought that the Q50 would replace the G37, the sedan version will remain in the United States as an entry model for a couple more seasons. As of press time, it's unclear whether Canada will follow suit.

Since the Q50 and G37 share the same basic dimensions, platform, suspension and powertrain and offer the same all-wheel-drive option, the differences between the two boil down to style and standard and available content. In both categories the Q50 outshines the G37 by a wide margin and should experience little trouble attracting buyers desiring a well-equipped rolling fashion statement to tool around in. Another important point of differentiation is the addition of the Q50 Hybrid that combines a potent mix of fuel economy and performance.

A cabin that elevates tastefulness to a new level also re-

2014 Infiniti Q50

- Type. Four-door, rear-/all-wheel-drive mid-size luxury sedan
- Engines (hp). 3.7-litre DOHC V6 (328); 3.5-litre DOHC V6 + electric motor (360, net)
- Transmissions. Seven-speed automatic
- Base price (incl. destination) $39,500

affirms the car's luxury-vehicle cred. This is especially in evidence with a dual-cockpit-shaped dashboard with both 17.5- and 20-centimetre touch-screen displays that operate the climate, communications and optional navigation systems.

Going forward, the Q50 employs a 3.7-litre V6 (same as in the G37) that makes 328 horsepower and 269 pound-feet of torque, while the Q50 Hybrid combines a 302-horsepower 3.5-litre V6 with an electric motor rated at 67 horsepower and 214 pound-feet of torque to produce 360 net horsepower.

The Q50 Hybrid's gasoline-electric powertrain is virtually identical to that used in what was previously called the M35h. For 2014, the M35h has been renamed the Q70 Hybrid. Its 50-kilowatt electric motor uses energy stored in a 346-volt lithium-ion battery pack located behind the rear seat. The Hybrid uses the same seven-speed automatic transmission as the regular Q50, as opposed to a less-than-sporting continuously variable unit found in most

Technology

Your Q50 can also be ordered with any number of option groupings, including a technology package with all the latest electronic safety enhancements such as blind-spot, lane-departure and forward collision warnings.

Fuel Economy

The stowage-space penalty is significant, but apart from the performance gain, the Hybrid rates an impressive 7.0 l/100 km in the city and 5.6 on the highway. The gasoline-only Q50 earns a 10.6/6.7 rating.

Design

As for looks, the Q50 shows off its top form with tasteful curves, swirls, bulges and angles that makes the once-stylish G37 seem downright dated and frumpy by comparison. It's also set apart by a hunkered-down stance that reaffirms its sport-sedan status, in particular with the optional 19-inch wheel-and-tire package.

The Q50's modern cockpit interior layout is designed mostly for the driver.

other hybrids. As well you can specify all-wheel-drive for the Hybrid, which is not available on similarly propelled Lexus or Lincoln models.

Befitting of any luxury sedan, the Q50 arrives properly attired, however the Q50 Premium adds heated front seats, power moonroof and Bose's 14-speaker "Studio on Wheels" audio system. Note that the Q50 Hybrid starts at the Premium trim level.

The Q50S adds metal-trim accents, 19-inch wheels, sport-tuned suspension and brakes and a different front bumper.

The Q50's $39,500 base price ($49,000 for the Hybrid Premium) is competitive with similar North American, German and Japanese marques, but with elevated content and eye appeal that communicates a unique luxury presence regardless of what name appears on the truck lid.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Your emotions are all over the place and for that reason you are advised not to make any spur-of-the-moment decisions where affairs of the heart are concerned. You could start something you cannot stop.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Why are you focusing on the one little thing that appears to be going wrong in your life when so many bigger things are going right? Whatever the reason you need to get over it.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Some kind of setback could throw you out of your stride today, but overall things are very much in your favour at the moment so there is no need to panic. The recipe for happiness is simple: worry less, love more.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You think you know everything about a certain person but what happens over the next 24 hours will show you don't know the half of it. And you'll realize it's a great surprise.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Someone you are fond of may have done something of which you don't approve but there is no need to make an issue of it. If you love them, you should give them your full support.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Not everyone is as poised and graceful as you so if a friend or relative falls flat on their face today try not to laugh... too much. Of course, if they keep falling over there may be something seriously wrong.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Whatever else you do today, don't get involved in other people's domestic situations. Even if you know you can help, your intervention won't be appreciated. Be smart and keep your distance.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Something has put you on edge and you don't like it one bit. The best thing to do is to put a name to the problem and then deal with it efficiently and ruthlessly.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

What you feel rather than what you think counts for more today. No matter how good a deal may look on paper if your instincts tell you there is something not quite right, you would be wise to turn it down.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Capricorns are not as detached as some people seem to think they are and what happens over the next couple of days will give you a chance to prove it. Be happy. Be warm.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You give off powerful vibrations that attract people to you and they will get more powerful still over the next 48 hours while the moon is new. Just make sure all these new friends don't cost you lots of money.

Pisces

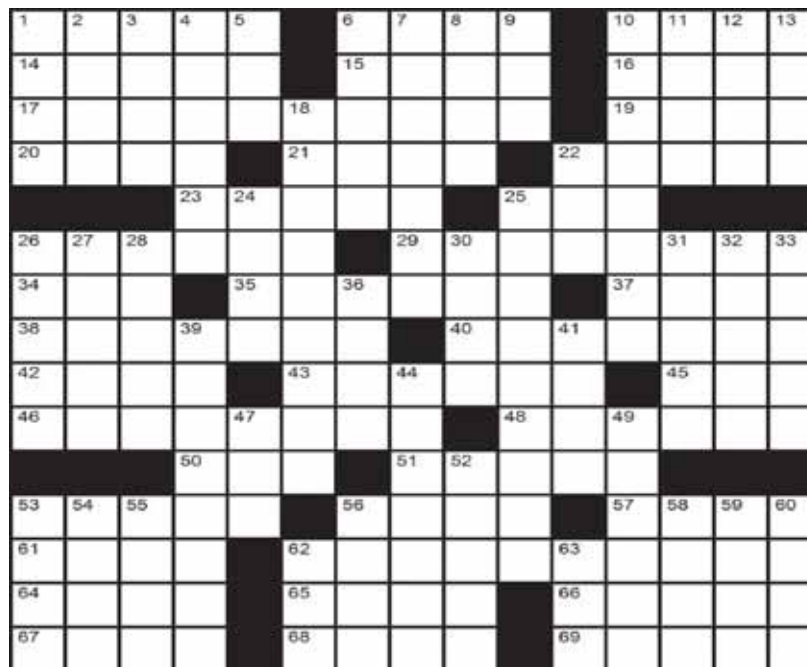

Feb. 20 - March 20

A little bit of flattery will go a long way today and will go even further tomorrow when the moon is new in your opposite sign. Just don't say things you don't mean — that's just dishonest. SALLY BROMPTON

better

Current as of August 12, 2013. Offer ends September 30, 2013. Any portion of the Bell Bundle Program may be modified, discontinued or terminated at any time. Bell is not obligated to provide the Bundle Discount for the duration of any term contract for Eligible Services, including the Discountable Services; see bell.ca/bundledetails. Available to new residential customers in select dwellings in the Ottawa region, where access and technology permit. Upon early termination, price adjustment charges apply. Subject to change without notice; not combinable with other offers. Taxes and restrictions apply. E-billing is provided at no cost, paper billing is available for $2/mo. (1) Only the PVR needs to be wired to the service. A wireless receiver ($7/mo. rental plan or $199 purchase) needs to be connected to each additional TV (up to 5) and to a power outlet. Customer responsible for use of wireless receiver; do not expose to heat sources, rain or damp and temperature extremes. Range of wireless signal may vary due to electromagnetic interference, home construction material, obstructions and other environmental factors. (2) Available to new customers with continued subscription to TV, Internet and Home phone: see bell.ca/bundle for details. Promotional $22.95 monthly price for months 1 to 6 based on the continued subscription to Bell Fibe TV Good package: $45.95 monthly rate, less $8 bundle discount, less $18 credit, plus $3 Digital Service Fee. All prices are subject to change without notice. (3) WHHPVR: $0 rental based on $15 monthly rental fee, less a $15 monthly credit. Wireless receiver: $0 rental based on $7 monthly rental fee, less a $7 monthly credit. Available to new Bell TV subscribers with continued subscription to three eligible Bell services; see bell.ca/bundle. The receivers remain Bell's property. You may terminate your rental at any time provided you return the receiver (early termination fees on programming may apply). Receivers may be new or refurbished at Bell's choice. (4) Fibe TV: installation charges are $49.95 on a 2-year contract term, $149.95 on a 1-year contract term and $249.95 with no contract term.
